THE BURLINGTON aldermen have voted to spend $7,300 in repairing and increasing the power of the municipal water pumping water from the lake to the reservoir.

HARRY L. HOWARD, son of J. N. Howard of Rutland has been arrested at Bennington for swindling operations in selling a revolving grate at Ballston Springs, N. Y.

IT IS estimated that a certain cunning old fox, which has been making his abiding place in the present season, has killed as many as four hundred turkeys, nearly all turkey raisers having suffered more or less by him.

THE Rutland county agricultural society has sued the Bennington mill for damages from the burning of their barns and sheds, which they claim was caused by live coals dumped by a passing train.

H. E. SMITH of Guilford has a wagon whose wheels have been running for over one hundred years. Origin of the wheels is not known, but the carriage in which Elder Robinson rode into town.

THE marble quarry at Pittsford, known as the Central Vermont, has been bought by Green B. Eaton, James Gilliam and other prominent men. The new firm has a large amount of capital and will push the work vigorously.

A ST. ALBANS lady, speaking of a family of her acquaintance as being sadly afflicted, went on to tell of what the affliction was: "One member of the family," she said, "has died another is very sick, and another is to be married soon!"—Messenger.

ON Tuesday last John McGinley, one of the carpenters at the paper mill in Lyndon fell from the first floor of the mill, fifteen feet high, striking on his head and shoulders, breaking his collar bone, and seriously injuring his head and other parts of his body.

THE men for destitute children in Burlington have elected these officers: President, Mrs. L. D. Turrill; vice-president, Mrs. A. G. Spaulding; treasurer, Mrs. L. M. Clapp; secretary and auditor, Mrs. S. C. Cole, with a board of managers and an advisory committee.

AN old settler on Grand Lake says that the lake is constantly growing shallower, and that children now living will see a sand plain nearly half a mile wide south of the sand-bar bridge where there is now a good depth of water. He attributes the change to the removal of the forests.

THE following patents have recently been issued to citizens of this state: Lovell D. Bullock, Jericho, machine for joining felloes; Clark E. Billings, Middlesex, reversible latch; Robinson Cartmel, Middlebury, wood pulp machine; Joshua H. Williams, East Craftsbury, jack.

DUMMERSTON people think that Governor Barstow has made a mistake in pardoning Edmund M. Stone of that town, who was serving a sentence in state prison for arson. It is stated that Stone had a bad reputation, and that it was a relief to the neighborhood when he was sent to prison.

THE Rutland county court adjourned the 18th, having been in session since September 11. Many cases have been disposed of. The remaining five indictments against J. M. Haven for over-issuing stock were called up, the bail discharged and the cases continued on Haven's own recognizance in $100.

THE Rutland Herald tells of a man in Castleton who still clings to an umbrella and clock with which he began housekeeping in 1828. He also retains an overcoat he bought of Shepard & Ware, dealers in clothing in Castleton, thirty years ago, and a pair of shoes he bought of the same firm on the grand list of the town.

THE old house in which Ethan Allen spent the night while en route to Westminster in revolutionary days still stands in Dummerston, in a good state of preservation, and is occupied as a dwelling by a family who takes pride in pointing out the room where the brave general slept preparatory to the first revolutionary skirmish.

MOUTON BROTHERS, proprietors of the Green Mountain stock farm, Randolph, received last week three valuable cows purchased at the Cooper sale of imported Jersey cattle in New York. The prices paid were as follows: El Dorado, two years old, $800; Melville, three years old, $1,200; Daisy Lady, two years old, with better calf, $1,850.

AT Putney a fox was captured in a rather novel way the other day by a boy of some fifteen years. He saw the fox run a skunk into a hole, and he ran to the hole in order to see the fox backing out by the tail, pulled him out and killed him by stamping on his head. The fox's fur was very strongly impregnated with mephitic perfume.

CONSIDERABLE excitement was caused in Westminster recently by the finding of a girl baby Sunday afternoon at the top of the hill north of S. F. Ward's brick yard. The selectmen were notified and they got it taken care of by Mr. A. H. Holton. It is supposed to have been left there by a woman who was seen by a number on Saturday afternoon.

IT is stated that the police have discovered the rendezvous of a gang of juvenile counterfeits at Jamaica, N. H., the members of which are bound together by solemn oaths. They reside in Londonderry, Jamaica, Ashuelot and Townsend. It is said that their mould and records have been captured. A member, arrested for horse stealing, is credited with giving information to the police.

A FARMER'S druggist received the following prescription from a traveling doctor last week: Syrup sassafras, three ounces; syrup stealing three ounces; fluid extract dandelion, two ounces; dose, two-thirds teaspoon after meals in lukewarm water. The druggist of the druggist is about the "dose," whether the patient is to take two-thirds of the teaspoon or two-thirds of a teaspoonful of the medicine.

THIRD goods store of Royce & Goff, at North Troy, was burglarized on the night of the 18th. The thief secured five overcoats, one piece of velvet, three or four dozen kid gloves and some knives and wallets. The noise of the breaking in was heard by people in the vicinity, who tracked the guilty individual to Canada and found the goods laid in a barn. The thief escaped, but papers will not doubt be made for his arrest.

THE post-office at Ludlow was broken into the night of the 18th. The outer door was broken through, but on attempting to enter the inner room a set of scales was thrown to the floor and it is supposed that the noise frightened them away, as nothing was taken. A horse, harness and wagon were taken from various parties the same night and it is probable that they were taken by the same parties. The robbers have not been discovered.

Mr. Blaine's Forthcoming Work.

The agent for the sale of the forthcoming great national work entitled "Twenty Years of Congress," by Hon. James G. Blaine, is in town and meeting with excellent success in securing subscribers. The first volume of the work is expected to be published sometime before the holidays, the second, and concluding volume, to follow in the near future. The period in the history which is covered by Mr. Blaine's work, from 1861 to 1881, was the most momentous as well as interesting which our republic has passed through. During this period the national congress was witness to events not less tremendous and decisive than those of the battle-field. The unfolding of the measures that led to the union cause abroad; the adjustment of constitutional conflicts; the securing of practical guarantees of future loyalty; all that was included in the province of congressional discussion and enactment in the period from '61 onward. The proclamation of war; the call for troops; the issuing of national currency; the act of emancipation; the confederate surrender; the granting of universal amnesty; the murder of Lincoln and the proposed assassination of Seward; the attempted removal of Stanton; the impeachment of Johnson; the election of Grant; the reconstruction of the South; the Haytian; the inauguration and assassination of Garfield; these were but incidents of the time which, on the congressional side, finds now its first full history at the hands of Mr. Blaine. His work has no predecessor, and can have no successful rival.

As the period chosen is unsurpassed in interest and importance, so is the historian exacting for the historian's work. On the one hand he stands sufficiently distant from the events themselves to insure cool perception and deliberate comparison. In the prime of his powers, and untrammelled by the constraints of opinion, he gives himself wholly to his task. On the other hand he possesses that absolute knowledge which comes from actual and influential participation. On the floor and in the speaker's chair of the house, and then on the floor of the senate, he witnessed the great events which he now places on the historic page. No important action was taken without his knowledge, while, in special council, he knew the facts and underlying motives which gave the action its true meaning. The statements of the author, corroborated by both external and internal proof, will possess an authority which will not easily be questioned.

Each volume of the forthcoming Lincoln and Seward, Chase, Breckinridge, Thad Stevens, Stanton, Sumner, Morton, Carpenter, Ben Hill, Garfield, and other great men of the past, with incidents of Edmunds, Thurman, Conkling, Bayard, Sherman, Ben Butler, Randall and other public men still living, will give to this literary effort, to young and old alike, the fascination of biography and general history.

Mr. Blaine is a brilliant writer, a keen observer, and possessed of a wonderful retentive memory. The work will be illustrated with fifty-seven steel portraits, and bound in the highest style of the art. The reasonable price of the work, when the illustrations are brought in the reach of all, and everyone should avail themselves of the opportunity now afforded.

Literary Notices.
RUBY is the second of Colonel G. E. Warring, Jr.'s, "Rough Stories." It is a short, spirited sketch of a frontier animal, and is well read. J. R. Osgood & Co. Price ten cents.

DIO LEWIS' MONTHLY for October is full of excellent matter. The Hygienic Department is well stocked with wholesome hints; Aunt Bonnybell gives the fashions, and Julia Conkling Bayard Sherman, Ben Butler, Randall and other public men still living, will give to this literary effort, to young and old alike, the fascination of biography and general history.
